Nazi Lecturer Barraged By Students' Questions

UNIVERSITY OF ALBERTA, FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 3, 1933

Stirring Controversy Aroused By Plea for Nazi Sympathy

POLITICAL SCIENCE CLUB SCORES

Dr. Henning Tells of "New Germany" to Keen Audience of Students and Professors-Heavy Barrage of Cross-Questioning Directed at Speaker

A land newly arisen from a morass of despair, inspired anew by the zeal of a great National-Socialist leader, determined to reassert its own national ideals and re-establish order and prosperity in its domains-a people srtuggling to throw off unfair and crushing burdens imposed by a war-time treaty—a nation staunch in Wednesday afternoon.

VOL. XXIV., No. 5.

Dr. Hennings was a visitor to the city this week while on a lecture tour of Canada. He is a Doctor of Science, and spent twenty-five years in England, where he held leading Anglo-German business positions. Recently he returned from Germany, where he was in residence during the last year, and where he was an eyewitness to the developments there which have so stirred the world.

Dr. Hennings stated: "When Germany laid down her arms in 1918 she did so on the strength of President Wilson's fourteen points. These provided for no annexations, no in-demnities—except for destruction of property—and no status of either victor or vanquished. When, however, the peace terms were submitted later, the picture was completely changed. Crushing indemnities were imposed. Territories which might have been subject to plebiscite ruthlessly handed over, or the plebiscite, where it was taken, disregarded. A blockade was kept up in an attempt to starve out Germany and force her signature."

Dr. Hennings divided the years following the Great War into four periods, calling them "the years of fulfilment," emphasizing the point that Germany tried to fulfill her representation are the second of the secon paration agreements (even paying out of loans from the countries involved), although she was given very little support from western democracies in her attempt to establish an orderly democracy and rebuild industry in her own country.

Dealing with disarmament and the League of Nations, Dr. Hennings said that Germany was perfectly reasonable in withdrawing from the League. Its fundamental principle is that there should be equality of its members, yet today Germany, a nation without the protection of natural boundaries is disarmed, to the satisfaction of the preparatory commission on disarmament which completed its work in 1927, but the other nations of the League are armed fifty times as heavily. The purpose of the League was to put right injustices, but so far its interests have been more those of the victors than the vanquished, and since the war armaments on the part of other nations have gone up more than 15 per cent.

VARSITY YEAR BOOK

Director Harold Riley Has Organized Capable Staff

The past month has witnessed the beginning of another term-and so, also, begins another "Evergreen and Gold." The ideal of the producer of a college annual may be worthy or a failure—depending largely on the help he receives. The book will be a troublescome infant till any the worthy of worth the post office. Don't delay—get that picture taken right now, as Dec. I is the date they must all be in.

Wanted—Snaps of Campus Life Many of you have, or will be taken born during the next few months, and will be a troublesome infant till next spring. During this long period of "teething" it will be the enthusiasm of staff workers, the suggestions of those students interested in design. those students interested in designing and in pursuits of original ends, achievement.

The "Evergreen and Gold" this itself a very year has gathered to itself a very capable and efficient staff:

Director-Harold Riley. Asst. Director-Jack Garrett. Secretary—Tom Clarke.
Advertising Mgr.—Web Neeley.
Layouts Manager—Harold Frick.
Non-Faculty Clubs—Ted Bishop.
Student Union Clubs—Ken Ives. Fraternities and Sororities-Gwen

Men's Athletics—Ev Borgal.

Men's Athletics—Helen Ford.
Faculty Clubs—Bob Scott. Epitaphs - Mary Slattery, Lois Hammond.

Advisory Board—Art Bierwagen, Jack Tuck, Arnold Henderson.

Dr. Hennings referred to newspaper statements to the effect that Germany is out for war, and protested that Germany is completely disarmed, except for a standing army of 200,000 men, lightly armed for defence only, and that therefore Germany could not possibly be an and crushing burdens imposed by a war-time treaty—a nation staunch in its refusal to accept any other than equal status in the councils of the nations—such was the picture of "The New Germany" presented by Dr. C. R. Hennings to a large and intensely interested gathering at the first meeting of the Political Science Club in the Medical Building on Wednesday afternoon.

Germany could not possibly be an aggressor. Dealing later with a question put by Mark McLung as to whether the speaker thought a war of unification would be necessary, he said: "Wars seem to be unavoidable. I would not like to prophesy on the question. Of one thing I am sure, another European war would mean the downfall of that degree of culture and civilization we have gained ture and civilization we have gained during the last hundreds of years."

Discussing the Hitler regime, Dr. Hennings stated that it grew out of an atmosphere of despair; it springs from below and not from above; Hit-ler is dictator by the choice of the people. His ideals are those of antimaterialism, many of his followers have no worldly possessions what-ever. He stands for German ideals for Germany—socialism, not on an international basis, but rather as a philosophy of national common fel-lowship. He believes in private own-ership, which he considers an incentive to industry, but there is national planning in economics, and the state comes first, not the individual. Unemployment has been reduced from six to four millions by voluntary public grants and individual effort on the part of manufacturers, than by legislation. An attempt has been made to reduce class distinction, improve farming conditions by fixing prices and encourage enterprise. "However, no country," said the speaker, "will be able to achieve anything very remarkable without world recovery."

LIBERALS WIN B.C. ELECTIONS

C.C.F., Only Organized Opposition, Far Behind With Six

Latest returns available from local papers as The Gateway went to press early this afternoon gave the stand-ing in yesterday's British Columbia provincial elections as follows:

Total number of seats	47
Deferred elections	6
Contested yesterday	41
Elected:
Liberals	30
C.C.F	6
Unionists	1
Independents	1
Labor	1
Independent Non-Partisan	1
Socialists	0
United Front	0
Independent C.C.F	0
$4 $4 $5 $2 $4 $4 $5 $5 $4 $6 $5 $5 $5 $5 $5 $6 $6 $5 $5 $6 $6 $6 $6 $6 $6 $6 $6 $6 $6 $6 $6 $6	500000 NO. OR OR OF THE

In the doubtful constituency ARSITY YEAR BOOK
GETS EARLY START

(Peace River, 19 polls out of 39), the Independent Non-Partisan candidate was leading the C.C.F. by a margin of 58 votes.

Doubtful .....

Picture Must Be in by Dec. 1
If the book is to be ready by April 1, it is imperative that every student -graduate, senior, junior, sophomore and freshman-get his picture taken way nothing else can. Place them in the "Evergreen and Gold" box. Also and the co-operation of the students if there are any amateur photographat large which will determine whether or not the book will be an patience to chase around the campus inveigling fair co-eds and brawny roughs into compromising situations, all for the beauty of the photograph and the glory of the Year Book, the director would like to make your ac-quaintance. The Year Book will finance the venture.

Evergreen and Gold Office This is located in Room 345 Medical Building. It will be open from 12:30 to 1:30 and from 5 to 6 each day. Club executives who desire information on Evergreen and Gold are most welcome at those

And don't forget—every student in the University must get his picture in right away. This MEANS YOU—ACT NOW, Help us get the Year Book out on time.

BALANCE SHEET ASSETS Gate (seldom used) .... Current: $56,876,27 Treasurer's bicycle ..... $1,200.27 Beer Keg (empty) ....... Cash on hand (see Temporarily mislaid by Jestley ..... Jestley) ..... Liquid: $62,978.27 Hot water fountain in Arts Rotunda ...... .27 LIABILITIES Frozen: Fixed: Bleachers (usually H. A. Arnold ..... $ empty) ..... L. Jestley ..... H. Prevey ..... Accounts Receivable: Other Executives ...... H. A. Arnold (flowers) Bessie Clarke (campaign funds) .. H. Prevey (to stretching 3,000.27 Men's Athletics ........... Women's Athletics ....... hat after election) .... 2,000.27 L. Jestley (Freckle Dramat ..... Cream, two bottles) .... Accounts Payable: Flowers for Arnold ..... Pansies for Rugby Team Lemons for Women's $ 117.27 Bad Debts Reserves.... Fixed Assets: Basketball ..... Ear Muffs for O.T.C.... Chair for Arnold ..... Alexander, 10.27 L. L. ......$28,430.27 McCormick, Contributions to S.C.M., by Jestley ...... Pornagraphic Postcards 100.27 E. J. ..... 28,430.27 2.27 56,860.00 for Prevey ...... What Jestley couldn't $62,978.27

CHOICE EXCERPTS FROM "UNIVERSITY ANTICS"

An editorial appearing in the Calgary Albertan, Tuesday, Oct. 31.

Evidence taken at this trial has shown that the student body in this year of grace 1933 is quite incapable of the miscalled "self-government" rested in it and which consequently ought to be placed in the hands of a capable disciplinary official on the University staff. That official is the Provost of the University, but at Edmonton he admitted in his evidence that, though he could have had details of the freshmen's initiation "ceremony" by asking for them, he was afraid to ask in case it turned out to be of a nature of which he could not approve. The Provost afraid of the student body!

It is not so very long ago student self-government was undertaken as a rather dubious experiment. So far as the University of Alberta is concerned, it may be considered to have failed on the ground that the students have shown they cannot govern themselves individually, much less the student

The question naturally arises: What are the University of Alberta authorities going to do about it? What have they already done about it?

Are the students going to be allowed to govern themselves with only the nominal intervention of a Provost who confesses to a judge of the Supreme Court that he was afraid to exercise his authority? Or is the government of the student body going to be placed definitely in the hands of the University authorities—where it always did belong despite their absurd attempt to unship the blame on to the totally irresponsible Students' Union?

Above we reprint portions of an Editorial from the Calgary Albertan for October 31, 1933, bearing the delightfully suggestive title, "University Antics." From a reading of the Editorial it appears to us to be perfectly obvious that it is either blindly prejudiced or has some kind of axe to grind. Comments of that sort can arise, we hope, only through extreme ignorance of fact or violent prejudice, neither of which can be recommended as a qualification for the writing of editorials which may serve to mould a very important section of public opinion.

The references to the Provost of the University in the first paragraph are, to begin with, entirely erroneous. His statement was not to the effect that he was "afraid of the student body" (as the editor of the Albertan rather jeeringly suggests), but that it was his policy to leave as large a measure as possible of selfgovernment to the students; an entirely different thing, and an attitude with which we are entirely in agreement.

But the writer ventures upon yet more dangerous ground when he sees fit to comment upon the institution of "student self-government." Here he commits the (to us) absolutely unpardonable offence of venturing to make a violent condemnation of an institution of which he is obviously entirely ignorant. He says: "... evidence ... has shown that the student body in this year of grace 1933 is quite incapable of the miscalled 'self-government' (by the way does the 'miscalled' refer to the word (salf) or 'covernment'? way, does the 'miscalled' refer to the word 'self' or 'government'?) vested in it"; and further down, "It was not so very long ago student self-government was undertaken as a rather dubious experiment. So far as the University of Alberta is concerned, it may be considered to have failed on the ground that the students have shown they cannot govern themselves individually, much less the student body."

We take exception to this last statements as it stands, not only as inaccurate in fact, but as a direct and studied insult not only to our studied body as a whole, but to every individual member thereof. A large daily newspaper should have both better arguments upon which to found its case and better grace than to descend to the petty policy of deliberately insulting hundreds of individuals, most of whom are unknown to it, but many of whom presumably come from the homes in which it is read.

As to the inaccuracy of fact: student "self-government" was not undertaken either very recently or as a "rather dubious experi-ment." It was instituted at the University of Alberta at about the time of the founding of the institution as a studied part of University policy to fit students for the work of governing themselves and their country in later life. We can see no better place than University for the accomplishing of this. Even assuming that in one or two respects student "self-government" may have blundered, there is absolutely no justification for the sweeping and insulting criticism which one of this province's leading dailies has seen fit to make. A logical extension of this policy would undeabtedly instiffer. logical extension of this policy would undoubtedly justify on its part the most scathing criticism of almost any government or political party of today. The Albertan evidently feels we should be carefully regimented through this institution, and instructed as to what to do and what not to do in true reform-school style. We should be pleased at some future time to hear that paper's opinions upon a policy of dictatorship for Canada.

It is, of course, quite possible that the Editor of the Albertan has been influenced by the somewhat distorted news reports of the case which have appeared in the various Canadian dailies, but it is the place of an editorial writer to find out some facts at first hand. Apparently the Editor of the Albertan has neither cared to nor tried to, and in consequence we believe his editorial is open to the criticism that it appears to be a deliberate attempt to foster popular prejudice against the University of Alberta.

NOTED EX-EDITOR

MATT HALTON

FORMER EDITOR FLEES GERMANY

Matt Halton Considers Discretion the Better Part of Valor After Nazi Threats

After being advised that he was under suspicion, Matt Halton, Editorin-Chief of The Gateway, 1928-29, and winner of an I.O.D.E. scholarship, who has been writing a series of articles on his impressions of Hit-ing culture of the country they had ler's Germany, has fled Germany, abandoning his mission for the time even be expelled from the country. Journalists, living in Germany, agree that the facts spread before RADIO IN ENGLAND the public in Matt Halton's articles are not in the least exaggerated nevertheless, they fear to say too much lest the same fate await them as has befallen the ex-Albertan. Intricate Mysteries of CKUA Com-

RINK NOTICE

All organizations desiring regular hockey hours at the University Rink must give written applications to the rink manager, Arthur M. Wilson, or leave them at the Union Office, before November 10th.

PARKER KENT NEW SOPH PRESIDENT

Executive for 1933-34 Elected by Sophomore Class Thursday

Parker Kent was on Thursday elected President of the Sophomore Class of 1933-34. Other officers are Vice-President, Katherine "Bubbles' Taylor; Secretary-Treasurer, Harold sion. A vaudeville producer can give Moreau. The executive consists of instructions to artists in the studio John Corley, Rod Digney and Jack while listening to the program. An-McIntosh. The Sophomore class of nouncers, listeners and controllers this year should be one of the best, manage the programs from their priif the officers elected are any criterion. Parker Kent, president, is a On this s terion. Parker Kent, president, is a very brilliant scholar, prominent in dramatics, and plays the saxaphone as a sideline. Bubbles Taylor, the only woman elected, should be able to voice the opinions of the fair sex were examined after the talk. to the best advantage. The secretary-treasurer, Harold Moreau, was on last year's executive. John Corley, Rod Digney and Jack McIntosh should prove efficient executive members.

The nominating speeches were held Wednesday afternoon. Although there was not a very large turnout, hecklers (of the male species) made up for any lack of noise. The speeches were characterized by the fact that the Sophomores felt badly that they could not have their revenge on the Freshmen, but instead had to treat them as equals. This apparently was a difficult task, according to Theo Cairns. It seems to us Freshmen that this is a very unmannerly thought for our venerable and the students of political history, is the forthcoming series of three lectures to be delivered in Convocation Hall Monday, Nov. 6, Tuesday, Nov. 7, and Wednesday, Nov. 8, at 8:30, by Ur. Alfred Zimmern, Professor of International Relations, Oxford University of the students of political history, is the forthcoming series of three lectures to be delivered in Convocation Hall Monday, Nov. 6, Tuesday, Nov. 7, and Wednesday, Nov. 8, at 8:30, by Ur. Alfred Zimmern, Professor of International Relations, Oxford University of the students of political history, is the forthcoming series of three lectures to be delivered in Convocation Hall monday. Wednesday afternoon. Although upper classmen.

EARLY CULTURES VIVIDLY DESCRIBED

Dr. W. G. Hardy Continues Lecture Series on Buried Cities for Museum of Fine Arts

The glories of the ancient My-cenean culture were unfolded Thursday evening by Dr. W. G. Hardy, while lecturing to a keenly appreciative audience on the fascinating subject of "The Lion Kings of Mycenae." This is the second of a series of four lectures on Buried Cities which is being sponsored by the Edmonton Museum of Arts. The first of these lectures dealt with Knossos and Cretan culture, while the next address will continue the panoramic view of Greek civilization. These are being held every Thurs-day evening, at 8:15, in the Medical Building.

Building.
For six hundred years there emanated a joyous, spontaneous culture for the island of Crete; the Golden Bloom of Minoan Civilization being from 2000-1400 B.C. But, for some time previous, a savage tribe of nor-thern peoples had been filtering into Greece. By 1750 B.C. these Minyans, for such they were called, had established control on the mainland. However, by about 1400 B.C. a new disturbance had precipitated still another northern race into the peningular the Achaeure. sula—the Achaeans. These savage warriors shattered the Minyan power of Greece, and within a short time even the sheltered island of Crete had been sacked and pillaged, Gradually these hands ing culture of the country they had won. And so for a time the splendid Mycenean culture was born and nurtured to a glorious maturity—this was the last gorgeous flower of the original Minear bloom abandoning his mission for the time being, hoping, however, to continue after the pending German election.

Quoting Mr. Halton, through the Journal: "I have been scared out of Germany at last." Having ignored the friendly warning of some of the Nazis, he was informed that he was being followed, and that it would be very advisable for his own sake to leave the country.

He very much regrets that he has not been able to finish his articles, but by staying and attempting to do so, he would face arrest. However, he claims he would not object to being arrested, but that in the end it would mean a long spell in jail on some false charge, before he could even be expelled from the country.

Mycenean culture was born and nurtured to a glorious maturity—this was the last gorgeous flower of the original Minoan bloom.

A new invasion swept over Central Greece, however, during the thirteenth century before Christ. These great warriors sacked, destroyed and annihilated, with the subsequent result that for four hundred years a dismal period of Dark Ages enveloped Greece. Certain portions of the Mycenean culture did escape, however, principally by fleeing across to Ionia in Asia Minor. So it was that the old Minoan culture eventually passed on and became the genesis of that great civilization of the Classical Greeks.

SUBJECT OF TALK

pared With Efficient British System

"Broadcasting Today" was the subject of an interesting paper pre-sented to the Electrical Club by Ed Jordan on Wednesday.

The speaker described, with the help of pictures, the British Broadcasting Corporation's 12-storey building in England. The Corporation spares no expense in having the latest developments installed. Interference and street noises are eliminated by a steel framework and a brick tower inside it. Elaborate ven-tilating equipment moistens and cools the fresh air for the administrative offices, the several studios and the large three storey concert hall. signal system distinguishes, by means of colored lights, the studios being used for rehearsal and for transmis-

On this side of the Atlantic de-

DR. ZIMMERN TO CDEAR HEDE

Famous European Scholar Will

mannerly thought for our venerable ternational Relations, Oxford University, and the Director of the Other nominees included Theo Geneva School of International Cairns, Bob Proctor, Anatholie Heath, Max Martyn, Jack Lees, and Winston Policy of Great Britain." While his Porter.

It is to be expected that this year's Sophomore functions will be the most successful of any of the previous years. And here is wishing the best of luck and every success to the incoming officers.

earlier studies and books dealt with the Greek and Roman civilizations, and a later book on "Greek Essayists," he has recently turned his attention to modern problems. Students are admitted free upon presentation of their registration cards.

THE GATEWAY

The Undergraduate Newspaper, published by The Students' Union of the University of Alberta Gateway Office: 151 Arts. Phone 32026.

Editor-in-Chief Chas. A. Perkins
Managing Editor Tom Costigan
Associate Editor Douglas McDermid
Associate Editor Chris Jackson
Associate Editor Wm. Epstein
Women's Editor Magdalena Polley
News Editor John Corley
Sports Editor Cec Jackman
Asst. Sports Editor George F. Casper
Feature Editor John Garrett
Casserole
Proof Editor Harvey Johnston
Exchange Bob Scott
Asst. Exchange T. MacNah
Librarian Mary Smith
BUSINESS STAFF

Business Manager ... Jack Tuck Advertising Manager ... Ed. Davidson Circulation Manager

LITTLE SLAM

The Parliament of Canada has recently added a new section to the Criminal Code which is of special interest to University students. (Perhaps Mr. Bennett really doesn't like us.) This section provides that any person who throws a "stink" bomb in any public place must perforce spend two years of his seventy confined in a penal institution. All discretion has been taken from the judge; if a conviction is made the minimum sentence must be two years, and the maximum sentence is five. Apparently the legislators considered that a judge would not be capable of inflicting a just punishment for such a heinous crime, although in cases of rape, forgery, incest, piracy, taking part in an illegal assembly, bigamy, or even breaking the seventh commandment, they have left the punishment to his judgment, and in such case he may even suspend the sentence. Next year the Parliament of Canada will probably rectify their omission and add lashes, and then they can truthfully say, "the punishment fits the crime." Canada now has the honor of having the most stupid piece of legislation that has ever been passed in criminal law.

-D. M.

POLITICAL CLUBS AND POLITICIANS

First founded about a year ago, the political clubs of the University of Alberta have in the past months registered a quite remarkable growth, probably reflecting in this a live and growing interest on the part of the students in the political and economic events of the world around us. Such a growing interest is, we believe, a most encouraging sign. We have been told, perhaps too often, that it is to the youth of today that the world looks for the solution of its problems. If this be so even in the slightest degree, it should logically follow that the university student of today is destined to be the leader in every phase of life tomorrow. Unfortunately a university education has all too often in the past meant that the recipient of this education has for four or five years been almost completely shut off from the current of world events, the result being that at best it takes some time after graduation to get in touch once again. In so far as this is concerned we believe the growth of the political clubs will have a most beneficial result.

However, there is one feature of these clubs which we consider a most unfortunate one, though it is probably only a reflection of a situation which is far too prevalent through this country as a whole. We refer to the fact that the members of each particular political club seem to be interested only in the viewpoints expressed by the leaders of the political party which they represent, and seem entirely to have forgotten that any other point of view exists or can exist. Thus the Conservative Club hears prominent Conservative leaders, the Economic Reconstruction Group hears talks by some of the more prominent leaders of the C.C.F., the Liberal Club, which has just been formed, opened its series of meetings, naturally enough, with a speech by the provincial Liberal leader, but has not shown any inclination to depart from the traditional procedure of the campus political clubs. Such a tradition is, as we have already suggested, probably only a logical outgrowth of the "dog-eat-dog" type of politics with which this country is cursed today. There is far more energy expended in Canada in attempts to discredit opposing political parties than in attempts to arrive at some sane and logical solution of the admittedly desperate situation which faces this country at the present moment. Many politicians are far more interested in gaining or retaining power by hook or by crook than they are in the ultimate solution of the country's problems or the welfare of its people as a whole.

There are probably many contributing causes to this unfortunate situation, but we believe one of them is the fact that most political adherents have at best a very hazy or very distorted view of the policies and views of their political opponents. Not only does this lead to misunderstandings between the adherents of the parties themselves, but it makes it easier for party leaders to play upon this ignorance and give totally erroneous reports of their opponents' policies.

As long as our University political clubs persist in following the policy of learning more and more about their own viewpoints, and less and less about the viewpoints of others, they will not only form a part of but will augment this vicious circle. We see in the continuation and extension of this policy a danger that our political clubs will become simply local recruiting stations and ballyhoo agencies for the various parties they represent. Of course, this may be the object which their backers have in view, but we hope not-such is not our idea of the type of political club for a university campus.

We would suggest, then, that the executives and members of the different clubs make a real and sincere effort to find out and understand the "other fellow's" point of view. The Conservative Club might, for instance, learn far more about the real policies of the C.C.F. from one of the C.C.F. speakers than from one of their own party, and the reverse is likewise true. Instead of condemning your opponent's policy, simply because his views do not coincide with yours, let him outline his policies himself. We have no intention of suggesting that it is

OFABETTER 'OL GO TO IT

Paternal Parent-So you want to marry my laughter? Are you able to support a family? Bill Holloway-I think so.

Father-Think again, young man. There are seven of us.

The mathematical ability of our Dent students has never been properly recognized, but, boy, how those guys can extract the square root.

John Corley-What makes your girl so freckled? Tom Costigan-She used some of that sun-tan cream, and it curdled.

It's nice to know your girl is charming, but it's wise to find out whom.

> There was a young lady from Crewe Who ran to catch the 2:2; Said the porter, "Don't hurry, Or worry or flurry, It's a minute or 2222.

Marg Smith—You say your sister makes up jokes? A humorist, eh? Mary Smith-No, she works in a beauty parlor.

Grad-I started out on the theory that the world had an opening for me. Undergrad-And you found it?

Grad-I'll say. I'm in the hole now.

Many, after a peach, only gets the razzberry.

There's a saying both witty and sage, We accept it without a demur: A co-ed stops telling her age When her age begins telling on her.

Albert Raber-If you keep looking at me like that I am going to kiss you.

Marg Masters-Well, I can't hold this expression much longer.

Professor-What steps would you take if you saw a dangerous lion on the campus? Clare Malcolm-Long ones.

T. W. E. Henry-Why are your socks inside out? Lawrence Wilkinson-My feet were so hot I turned the hose on them.

Eddie Foy-I don't know which Pembinite to take to the dance.

Carmen McKim-Why don't you flip a coin? Eddie-I did, but it didn't turn out right.

Engineer-This blueberry pie looks queer. House Eccer-Maybe I put in too much bluing.

Arnold (coyly)-Chicken croquettes, please. Waiter (to kitchen)-Fowl ball!

necessary to agree with the arguments of your political opponent, but why not at least learn of them first hand? By following some plan of this kind the political clubs of the University of Alberta can make a real contribution to the amelioration of a state of affairs which is today ruining the political life of Canada.

-L. L. A.

GRAND SLAM

We whole-heartedly congratulate Lyle Jestley and his executive for having presented so daring and controversial a subject at an open meeting of the Political Science Club. The speaker probably anticipated the controversial nature of the discussion, and sensed the antagonism of the meeting, but in lecturing to a University audience he could not have expected the futile and unscholarly nature of the

Any suggestion that he was a Hitler propagandist ought to have been dispelled by his reserved and intelligent review of the situation. German political and economic history since the war was dealt with accurately and without unreasonable bias.

Our quarrel is with the ineffectual nature of the discussion following the speaker. It is weak criticism to take an unrelated sentence from the work of as impassioned an individual as Herr Hitler and proceed to condemn the whole system.

There seemed to be an opinion that Dr. Hemming was a Nazis propagandist, and as one speaker commented, they came to the meeting ready to pick a

The first questioner, while presenting his criticism in a most polished manner, took exception to a statement made by the Nazis leader in his autobiography, which in its outrageous savagery was only laughable. To attempt to defend it would have been foolish and futile, and Dr. Hemming placed it in its proper category. However, he was astute enough to realize that the speaker was not using his question as an argument, but as a lead to an intelligent discussion, and paid him a compliment in asking him to continue the argument in private.

It was unfortunate that the meeting adopted a small town attitude, and refused to view the situation from an unprejudiced point of view. We have listened to enough anti-German propaganda to discount it pretty heavily. We have seen too many pictures of German soldiers with dripping babies spitled on their bayonets to take this kind of stuff seriously. To hold words spoken in a tantrum as an argument and refuse even to consider facts and motives, brand the speakers as pretty shallow thinkers.

Dr. Hemming retained his composure even when one speaker criticized him like an irate school ma'am berating an impudent child.

The speaker's control of the situation was at times in question, but at no time did he abandon his colors, or show any of those brutish tendencies attributed to his party. Undoubtedly the subject was highly controversial, but it was not necessary to let the discussion descend to a humiliating criticism of an irrational leader's heedless remarks.

"ON THE SPOT"

The heading of our column last veek was a very apt description of our mental state upon finding our efforts so headed. Our original intent had been to write under the caption "Stun," which is "nuts" reversed, but The Gateway staff apparently had a different analysis of our condition. Possibly they are prophesying how we shall feel when those ever-active people "Candidus," "Retired Colonel, Sir," "Observer," and their ilk get to work on our maiden attempt as columnists. One can imagine them opening the paper at the solemn conclave which we trembling columnists believe they hold after each issue, their tense alertness as their president scans the paper page by page, then his feverish cry of "Stunned! A new column comrades! To work!" One pictures the wild scene that follows: "Indignant lady's high treble rising above the, "I shall attack on moral grounds"; the bass roar of Citizen declaiming, "breach of our contract rights!" Then the frenzied rush for pens and paper and "The Gateway Letter-writers Affiliated" are at their meat, ripping and tearing, or delicately dissecting, snarling or smiling, according to disposition. Allah be with us!

To avoid further misunderstanding, we shall head our column "On the Spot" in recognition of our elevation to The Gateway strong arm staff. Just two pun men, gangsters for The Gateway.

"For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of the world, against spiritual wickedness in high places."

We gather from this that the poor, whose position was once regarded as sacred, but who have since been told by the rich that there is no virtue in poverty, are, like most beautiful blondes, more sinned against than sinning. And if we listen to the radio we come to the conclusion that they are also more singed against than singing.

We were recently talking with a fair co-ed about shows we'd seen. She was of the opinion that several recent Hollywood productions were simply crude, but professed a deep admiration for the Freshman plays of last Friday.

G.B.S. says, "When a man wants to murder a tiger he calls it sport. When the tiger wants to murder him he calls it ferocity." The distinction between the aforesaid Hollywood productions and the plays is very simiar, we would suggest.

TOLERANCE.

Taurus deplores the remarks directed at the distinguished guest speaker, Dr. Henning, when he addressed the Political Science Club. The remarks are all the more to be deplored because some of them emanated from one of our professors-a man noted for his caustic comment of anything he chooses to favor with his attention. But while we disapprove of this one incident, it would well to remember that everybody makes mistakes, even professors, and it should also be borne in mind that this particular professor is a very fair-minded and straight from the shoulder type of man, who always has the courage of his convictions. On the whole, we like the way he does things far better than the way other people don't do things.

ARTS ROTUNDA FOUNTAIN.

Taurus does not like to be continually crabbing, but that fountain in the Arts Building rotunda is a real source of grievance. If the Iniversity is so poverty-stricken that it cannot afford to keep a small stream of clear, cold water running all day long, then the fountain should be removed. Taurus just wishes that whoever the person is who orders that fountain to be shut off would try to drink its lukewarm, soupy, pipe-tasting liquid. It is a darned insult to Class '32, who presented the fountain to the University. Maybe the Council could do something about this—who knows?

U.S. DEBATE OFF.

Taurus has learned that Arthur D. Bierwagen, who was to represent Alberta in the Northern States as speaker plenipotentiary and debater that his one month trip has been cancelled because the N.F.C.U.S. has failed to persuade a sufficiently wonder about their "whys and wherefores." The buttons on the cuffs of course come under this heading. ties to guarantee to meet the Cana-dian team. Oh, well, we have Art Most people put the presence of with us just that much longer. May- these buttons down as ornamental, be the Debating Society will send him but the real truth of the matter is to debate in Calgary, where by his ability and merit he will help kill some of the anti-university feeling in that hot-bed.

University of Kansas.—Students at the university this semester are receiving financial aid in the form of ten-cent meals. Students with studious habits who wished to avail themselves of this service made appointments with members of the column themselves of this service made appointments with members of the column themselves of this service made appointments with members of the column to the column themselves of this service made appointments with members of the column to t themselves of this service made appointments with members of the "There's too much of the school-"scholarship meals" committee before they enrolled this semester. After says Dean McKnight. "It is me' is personal interviews with the committee, the students' applications were is much to be preferred over 'It is I'."

—Dalhousie Gazette.

IT PAYS TO SMOKE TURRETS

An added a traction to any card game—you will find this to be one of the bandsomest, sturdiest, lightest and most easily erected card tables. Black decognish with water-

Wonderful Gifts for POKER HANDS

Smokers of Turret Cigarettes are today receiving gifts of exceptional value for poker hands.

With the enormous sale of Turrets comes an equally great demand for gifts. This creates a tremendous buying power which means extra value in the gifts, which are absolutely Free. Send for the complete list or drop into the nearest Poker Hand Premium Store-see what valuable articles you can get when you smoke Turrets - not to mention a cooler, sweeter, more satisfying smoke.

Quality and Mildness CIGARETTES

Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada, Limited

SAVE THE POKER HANDS

ARCHEVIRCHEVIRCHEVIRCHEVIRCHEVIRCHEVIRCHEVIRCHEVIRCHEVIRCHEVIRCHEVIRCHEVIRCHEVIRCHEVIRCHEVIRCHEVIRCHEVIRCHEVIR

THE BEST

Varsity Tuck Shop

IN CANADA

The RAINBOW ROOM

IS FREE FOR STUDENT FUNCTIONS

BUILDING OUR BUSINESS ON SERVICE AND VALUE

smart styling . . . intelligent fitting service, and sensible prices, the Fashion Bootery is well and favorably known to a wide circle of Edmonton's well-dressed

THE FASHION BOOTERY

There is a story back of almost everything we see, and a reason for almost everything that is, but in that in the ancient days when men wore lace ruffs at their wrists, these ruffs were buttoned on to the sleeve. When the lace effect went out of style, the buttons remained, and they are still worn .- The Manitoban.

University of Chicago.-A woman was granted a Master's degree at the University of Chicago after she had

JACK CRAWFORD Varsity Beauty Parlor

Phone 31144 for Appointments Private Booths for Ladies and Gentlemen

We specialize in Permanent Waving, Finger Waving and Marcelling

Anybody need a dignified dish-

A group of economists once stated that depressions make for specializsubmitted a thesis on "Four Ways to Wash Dishes." Columbia granted a Doctorate of Philosophy to the author of a dissertation, "The Duties of School Janitors."

ation no the part of workers. Here you have the proof, taken fresh from the "Situations Wanted" column of the Los Angeles Times, where it was unobtrusively tucked away among the variety of "educated" and "refined" contlement that occurred the ation no the part of workers.- Here Neitzsche's Superman come to earth in the guise of a glorified dish-washer, with a hardware store disposition and character!

Bet he got a job .- Daily Northwestern.

CO-ED COLUMNS

OUR PUBLICITY DEPARTMENT ITS RADIO WORK

By M.F.A.

We often hear Alberta taxpayers complaining of the cost of our University to them, and demanding of Varsity students what direct benefits they may personally derive from it. The majority of us would probably have difficulty in answering such a question, and would mumble vaguely that University training makes for a well-trained and intelligent future generation, etc., etc. But what many of us do not know is that we have a phase of University activity, namely, the Department of Extension, whose purpose is the spreading of culture throughout the province.

This department, under the capable direction of Mr. E. A. Corbett, enriches the lives of many people through its travelling lectures and libraries, its radio work, debating material and bulletins, its visual in-struction and its Carnegie activities.

The Department of Extension's influence is felt throughout all Alberta, and in a series of subsequent articles we shall endeavor to present the various phases of its activities of interest to the students.

Radio Work of Great Importance Our radio station, CKUA, which was installed in 1926, is one of the more recent innovations in this department, and the importance of its work is becoming more and more apparent as time goes on. Its clever director, Miss Marryat, deserves all credit for the capable manner in which she has handled this depart-

This year the station hopes to commence their schedule on November 1st, but owing to a delay in the de-livery of certain apparatus for the new transmuters, the time of start-

This station is to be an alternative to the Canadian Radio Commission, and a number of the latter's pro-grams will also be broadcast over CKUA. Our station is to be linked up with CFAC at Calgary and CJOC at Lethbridge. The resulting chain programs will have a much wider coverage than CKUA alone.

The programs are varied, ranging from good music, talks and drama, to discussions on current topics. Leading professors will appear before the microphone every Tuesday to lecture on World Movements. Such topics as Capitalism, Fascism, the National Recovery Act in the U.S.A., and many others will be dealt with.

On Wednesday evenings Mr. E. A.
Corbett, Director of the Department, will give a series of short talks, entitled, "Short Sketches of Great Canadian Personalities. Many were the dramatic happenings in the lives of 15th. these men, and some of these "big moments" are to be given in dramatic form the Friday evening following the talk, in vivid scenes written by Morris Longstreth, of Ottawa.

A series of lectures on Canadian Art, Carnegie endowment, is to be given each Thursday evening. This year, as an interesting innovation, listeners who follow the course will have prints of the nictures last to have prints of the pictures lent to them for the period during which these are being discussed. This has been made possible by a donation from the National Gallery at Ottawa of prints of the works of forecast. of prints of the works of foremost Canadian artists.

On Friday evening Mrs. N. W.
Haynes is giving a series of four talks writing competition is on this year on play writing, and another play-for those interested. A one-act play

Steen's Drug Store

10912 88th Ave. We Deliver Phone 31456.

We have just received a fresh stock of Harriet Hubbard Ayer's Famous Beauty Preparations, used by women who

Peacock

America's

Foremost

Style Name

JOHNSON'S-the leading CAFE

Corner 101st St. and Jasper Ave.

FOX SHOE STORE

10129 JASPER AVENUE

MAUDIE'S EDUCATION

(An Agony in One Spasm)

By L.W. Near the town of little Mudford On the prairies of Alberta Stood the mansion of one Higgins, Hiram Higgins, mighty farmer,

Sweet young thing, of winsome beauty, Worthy of a greater training, Made for higher education. So they sent her to our college, To our dear old Alma Mater, There to learn of Greek and Latin, There to muse on things ennobling. Maud was very good to look at, Pure and innocent and charming,
But without IT she was nothing,
For the "body urge" was lacking.
A sophisticated room-mate
Lent her rouge and cream and

And this farmer had a daughter, powders, Helped her to improve on Nature. Then she sat her down in friendship, Told her of the Facts of Luring— "Men," she spake, "are childish creatures, Weak, and soft, and feeble-minded-But, of course, we have to have 'em-Have to have our dates and dances, Tucks and taxis, plays and parties. They must be consoled and flattered, Worked with persevering patience. If a slight and boyish stripling—Murmur low 'my rugby hero'; If a bronzed and brawny Tarzan,

Huge and awkward, mighty-sinewed, Huge and awkward, mighty-sinewed,
Tell him he's a perfect dancer,
Glides along like rippling waters;
If he's ugy as the mischief
Call him your divine Apollo—
Feed them all the lies you know of,
Boy, oh boy—and how they love it!
Men are horribly conceited,
The more wildly you do flatter,
More and more will they believe you,
More and more absorb your stories— More and more absorb your stories-Think of you as clever, gifted, Wonder how you ever noticed All the beauties of their natures, Call it 'woman's intuition'."

Maudie thanked her kind advisor, For the facts of fascination, Then she followed all these sayings, Worked a lovely line together, Told the males of her acquaintance They were terribly attractive. And the egotists adored her, Rushed her to all sorts of parties, Followed her around like puppies, Swallowed all the lies she told them, Lapping up the muck she fed 'em-Was she popular? . . Ach! Zowie!
—So was Maudie educated.

SKI CLUB NOTICE

The ski jump will be ready on Saturday. Jumpers will use it at their own risk. The jump is reserved for members only on Sunday afternoons.

will also be directed over the radio for one-half hour, commencing Dec.

Other shorter features in this sea-grams, debates and discussions, a son's work are the Agricultural prohealth period, and another intensely interesting series of talks, "Travellers' Tales," given by a number of ance and hostility.

After Tuesday night's practise, our coach, Mr. Parney, was enthusiastic presents every phase of the depart-ment's work, and supplements all sections. It welds the department into one complete and connected unit.

Coach-Get in there and fight! Trowbridge-But, Coach, I'm a lit-

Coach—I don't care if you are a big stiff. Get in there and fight!— The Hornet.

And then there was the Freshman who sent his pants to the Associated Press.—The Hornet.

DR. N. W. HAYNES DENTIST

Nitrous oxide oxygen extrac-

214 Empire Block, Edmonton, Alta. Phone 25755

Smart

Popular

CLOTHES

There's been a lot of discussion about clothes since Eve first turned coy and donned the fig leaf. Some writers say the clothes of a nation reveal its soul. While that would be hard on the Scotch, at least the dour garb of the pilgrim fathers suited their sabbatical tempo, and the gilded furbelows of the later Restoration period suited its naughty plays and polygamous kings.

Clothes have prevented many women from dying of sheer boredom. Half the time its the passion for a hat rather than the love of a man which makes a woman turn peacock. However, clothes are something of a necessity these days, although Tessimond in "Poetry" thinks they are the weeds (pun!)—only a screen between human shortcomings and all natural poetry. He's pretty cynical in his poem, "Cocoon for a Skeleton":

Clothes

to compose The furtive, lone Pillar of bone To some repose.

To mask, belie The undue haste Of breast for breast Or thigh for thigh.

To let hands shirk Utterance behind A pocket's blind Deceptive smirk.

To screen, conserve The pose, when death Half-strips the sheath And leaves the nerve.

To edit, glose Lyric desire And slake its fire In Polished prose.

-Tessimond, in "Poetry."

THE STREET OF THE SANDALMAKERS

Nis Petersen's novel, "The Street of the Sandalmakers," was translated from the Danish and published in new religion, more for love than con-England by Rasche Dickson, a graduate of this University. It is an authentic story of Rome in the time of Marcus Aurelius told in easy modern English.

new religion, more for love than conviction, and he is killed on his way to be sold into slavery just after Jon has brought him a message of love from Caecilia.

The inevitability of life is expresscellus' love affair with Ruth, a pretty Jewish slave girl, and the difficulties involved thereby. A son Jon is born, but has to be smuggled away to avert the wrath of Papirius, and Ruth the satisfaction of successful

achievement."

This novel is vivid in style—written in the typical impersonal fashion of our day. From first to last it is amusing, thought-provoking and instructive beinging us years asserted.

Street of the Sandalmakers six years later. Jon, accompanied by Ped-anius, the shoemaker who has brought him up, returns to the city. The son of Marcellus and Ruth is a preof Marcellus and Ruth is a precocious child—cunning, self-assured and imaginative. When Pedanius dies of a lingering illness, Jon is taken into the family of the physician, Galen. The intimate descriptions of the life of this poorer section of Rome are delightful. Christianity is rising and Cynicism waning and the

The last section brings together over neither ever learn of their relation. The players that are cut out are sent Marcellus meets Caeccilia, a fanatical for "seasoning" with House League young Christian, and with his usual teams. So don't be discouraged, susceptibility, falls in love with her. Freshettes, if you can't make the while he is being persuaded to her faith, during which time Jon continues to thrive among his friends in the Street of the Sandalmakora. deceptions and escapades; his likes and dislikes are so entirely human, but for all that one can never think

Seasonal Drama

"Hello, hello—do I remember your name. Why, of course I do—how could I forget it after that dance—

I'll be seeing you."

December.

"Hello, hello—gee, I thought you'd never phone—I've just been waiting hours—of course I do—what!
—well, I can't say much; some of the girls might hear—mmm—me too—you know I do—do you?—are you sure?—honest—boy, but I'm happy—sure, I'll tell you when I see you—you'll be right over, goody—be quick, won't you—of course I will—you know I do—good-byeee."

training shall effectively serve its purpose.

Now, a word about our new award system, installed last year. There are three forms of awards given annually by the Women's Athletic Association: (1) minor, (2) major, and (3) service awards.

(1) The minor, in the form of a silver "A" pin, is given to those who make a position on any senior team, provided that they have attended two-thirds of its practices, and provided

April.
"Tell him I'm out or dead or something. Oh-h-h—it's somebody else."
"Hello, hello—do I remember your name—why, of course I do—how could I forget it after that dance you did too . . . . . I'll be seeing you."

Simple Pleasures

The Soviet has abolished Christmas and has decided that kissing causes or spreads influenza. About the only luxuries left in Russia are assault and battery and starving to death.— (3) Service awards are given Calgary Herald.

The characters are so numerous as to be at times a little confusing, but never, throughout the whole story, does the interest flag. Marcellus, that weak, ineffectual, but thoroughly charming young man, is the son of Papirius, one of the most esteemed men in Rome. The first part of the book deals with Marcellus' love affair with Ruth, a pretty structive, bringing us very near what we are pleased to call the ancient world.

Ruth dies.

From this patrician world part two takes us into the busy life of the world.

-F. M. J.

CO-ED SPORT

rising and Cynicism waning, and the year's team, former House Leaguers, affairs of the followers of Christus and a real "crowd" of Freshettes. prospects. Jon, now a youth, but no less an urchin, and Marcellus — though tively, and will have to be cut down.

> Pre-season hockey training is in the capable hands of Arn Thompson. Practises are held regularly in Athabasca gym at 11:30 Tuesdays and 4:30 Fridays. If you can't make it then, you have the alternative of appearing on 1:30 p.m. Wednesdays and 11:30 Thursdays. Attendance, in the case of Freshettes who are excused from Physical Training temporarily, is taken, as there are restrictions on the number of "skips" you may take.

We hear that it's lots of fun. You you did too; g'wan, you're kidding me. Would I like to go out?—sure I would—no, I'm not kidding you— honest I'm not. Well, that's swell— sure, I'll remember—you bet—don't you forget—well, s'long—good-bye— I'll be seeing you."

We hear that it's lots of fun. You use parallel bars, attempt complete somersaults, turn cart-wheels, etc., and that it's very interesting, even thought the girls are very, very stiff at first. We, from our comfortable arm-chair, have no doubt that this training shall effectively serve its purpose

February.

"Hello, hello—well, I don't think I can, I'm awful busy—sure I want to, but I've got an awful lot of stuff or series. Whether you make one or to catch up. No, I can't make Saturday, one of the girls is having a party—of course I like you—sure I'll "A" pin. If you should make these always think of you as a friend. No, same teams a second time in any of course I'm not—but I can't see following year, you get a rider at-you if I haven't the time. Well, I'll be seeing you round." following year, you get a rider at-tached to a fitting symbol of the sport, for every sport that you parsport, for every sport that you participated in. A gold felt "A" is credited towards you in your third year on a senior team.

(2) A major award consists of a felt blazer, and is the highest, most coveted and least awarded honor, given only in recognition of excep-tional athletic achievement and lead-ership in University athletics. So far, only one major award has been grant-ed, and the recipient has been Joseph-ine Kopta, past member of track and basketball teams and holder of pro-

(3) Service awards are given to managers of senior teams.

CONTESTS SEAT ON CITY COUNCIL

MARGARET CRANG, B.A., LL.B.

It is inspiring to University students, especially in these difficult times, to discover that our young graduates are devoting themselves to public service, and thereby giving to the common good the benefit of higher education.

Miss Crang is widely known in University circles. She graduated in Arts in 1930, Law in 1932, and School fo education in 1933. At present she is articled to a law firm in the city, and expects to be called to the bar in January.

Margaret, besides being very suc-cesful in her studies, has always been ove from Caecilia.

This young lady is running as
The inevitability of life is expressLabor candidate for alderman in the bird lover." "Yes, he does know a lot of foul stories."—The Hornet.

"I hear that Bob Long is a great

New principles of economy are taking shape at the University of Pittsburgh. The male quartet has been reduced to a trio.—McGill Daily.

"What is heredity?"
"Something that a father believes in until his son starts acting like a darn fool."—The Hornet.

She gets on a street car the advertising is a total loss.—The Hornet. Slang keeps human expression alive

At present the dignified about it, the Dean of the ern University states.-McGill Daily.

> EXPERT WORKMANSHIP REASONABLE PRICES

Garneau Shoe Repair

10917A 88th Avenue

A LEAF TURNS BROWN

A green leaf nestles in green treetops,
In a world all fresh and green and beautiful:
Many days will there be; Many things will it see.

A red leaf falls from red treetops, Into a world all blustering russet-gold:

Many winds about blow;
Many places will it go.

A brown leaf scuttles over white snow, Into a world all bare of spring's illusions:

Many places has it been, Is it Life that it has seen. -D. B. L.

CO-ED BASKETBALL PROSPECTS BRIGHT

Tuesday night saw a record turn-out for women's basketball. About forty girls—enough for eight teams— were present. Coach Parney should be able to pick an excellent team out of this. His job isn't so easy. The girls looked pretty good as they played.

Elmiinating will start next Thursday. Don't be discouraged if you are not told to turn out for senior practise. Remember we want you in the House League. It looks as if there should be at least three good teams from Pembina this year, as well as some excellent overtown teams. The "Arrows," who won the cup last year, had better look to their laurels.

Last year's House League teams are furnishing some promising ma-

With all these newcomers, last year's squad had better not get too cocky about their abiltiy, etc. After all, the Frosh are looking better than they have for the last three years.

We are certainly glad to see that women's basketball is coming into its own on the campus. If this enthusiasm keeps up, the Alberta team of '33-'34 should be on a par and even superior to the best team we have had, and that is saying something.

PHONE 22111 New Low Rates Jack Hays Ltd.

TAXICABS HEATED PACKARD SEDANS DRIVURSELF CARS

10056 101st Street Rat Willis—Is she very pretty?

George Smith—Pretty? Say! When

The University Book Store

Pennants.....$1.10 and $1.40 Faculty Pennants.....$1.75 Crests _____20c and 35c

Belt Buckles ..... Medical Pins ..... SOLID GOLD

UNIVERSITY BOOK STORE

FRENCH and SPANISH

Spoken for students of Languages

THOMPSON & DYNES

HAIRDRESSING AND BEAUTY PARLOR

Convenient Scale of Prices All Systems of Permanent Waving

YOUR Year Book Photo Should be Taken NOW

To ensure prints for Christmas

THE UNIVERSITY STUDIO

DEPARTMENT OF EXTENSION

Interfac Title Decided

Snow-bound Grid Scene of Hectic Battle in Twilight Hours-One Point Margin Decides Game

A shadowy figure breaks from the dark background of the scrimmage, and, weaving in and out amongst the Science backfield, seems to be away on the snow-covered field. He is—he isn't -an Engineer hastily girding on his snowshoes as if they were seven league boots, draws abreast of the fleeting Pharmedent-a lunge, maybe a tackle—the Med is down, the ball goes wild. No, it's a

Cooper—some monicker — receives, dashes, weaves, runs yards, and more yards—Meds say 75, Engineers claim terback Moir handled the game to 15. But then there were no slip-sticks handy. Maybe the referees had merous members of the senior team banned them as counterbrand. Thus came and went one, only one, of the big moments during Thursday's interfac rugby. This scramble wound up the series which has been occupying the waking hours of the lesser rugby moguls of the campus for the past month.

The came began like the first exting the senior team merous members of the senior team merou

Golden Bears. Departed for another season are the Freshmen and others who have ventured on the rugby field for the first time and have hung on through many trials to become good. through many trials to become seas-oned stalwarts. Some will graduate to the teams representing the Uni-versity; others, we hope, will return to strengthen next year's interfac squads. All we hope to see in action ed themselves against the Med on-continued back and forth in the middle of the grid. Neither side was in any danger, and the chief diffi-culty faced by the players was that of keeping warm.

Half-time went by the board with beautiful pass worthy of a Timothy, Hess or a Red Grange. Received? there was a good turn out of players Of course, the redoubtable Red and spectators; there was almost 75 past month.

Ghost rugby came and departed for another season on the snow-covered grid yesterday. No more this season will we have the thrill of seeing strong he-men don cleats and helmet the first swim in spring—"I'll jump in if you will" sort of stuff. One or two scrimmages broke the ice—i.e., the snow—and both teams started the battle in feather than the first swim in spring—"I'll jump in if you will" sort of stuff. One or two scrimmages broke the ice—i.e., the snow—and both teams started the battle in feather than the first swim in spring—"I'll jump in if you will" sort of stuff. One or two scrimmages broke the ice—i.e., the snow—and both teams started the battle in feather than the first swim in spring—"I'll jump in if you will" sort of stuff. One or two scrimmages broke the ice—i.e., the snow—and both teams started the battle in feather than the first swim in spring—"I'll jump in if you will" sort of stuff. One or two scrimmages broke the ice—i.e., the snow—and both teams started the battle in feather than the first swim in spring—"I'll jump in if you will" sort of stuff. One or two scrimmages broke the ice—i.e., the snow—and both teams started the battle in feather than the first swim in spring—"I'll jump in if you will" sort of stuff. One or two scrimmages broke the ice—i.e., the snow—and both teams started the battle in feather than the first swim in spring—"I'll jump in if you will" sort of stuff. One or two scrimmages broke the ice—i.e., the snow—and both teams started the battle in feather than the first swim in spring—"I'll jump in if you will" sort of stuff. One or two scrimmages broke the ice—i.e., the snow—and both teams started the battle in feather than the first swim in spring—"I'll jump in if you will" sort of stuff. One or two scrimmages broke the ice—i.e., the snow—and both teams started the battle in feather the first swim in spring—"I'll jump in if you will" sort of stuff. to battle for victory, contending with forth in the centre of the field until the weather as well as their oppon-ents. Gone but not forgotten are the exploits of those heroes of former Alberta teams who have returned to interfac because press of work pre-verts them for a with the Engineers drove the Meds back within their own territory. With a good position for a kick, Freeze got the ball away to Woznow. MacDon-ald recovered for the Parmedents, vents them from continuing with the but McConely was on the spot with a Half-time went by the board with the score still unchanged. The Enagain.

Yesterday's game was played under the most trying conditions that any team could face. Despite the cold and the fact that the grid was covered with several inches of snow,

Senior Grid Team Set For Games With U.B.C.

Green and Gold Leave for Vancouver on Tuesday in Search of Hockey Trophy-Coach Wilson's Aggregation Fit and Ready

After emulating Napoleon's retreat from Moscow for the past week on a snow-bound grid, the rugby team is again prepared for

The boys have shown no lack of enthusiasm in spite of the many discomforts attendant upon practicing under such difficult con- leagues will be in operation as last ditions, and have run through signal practices regularly. Coach Wilson has had over twenty men on hand every night, and handling a rugby ball after dark in upwards, of a foot of snow with about ten degrees of frost is no pansy pastime.

Phone 27535

Veteran Taxi

Coach Wilson is concentrating on a close-knit plunging game, the use far as weight is concerned. Al Hall, of the forward having been abandoned due to a lack of passers. It is doubtful if Ivan Smith will be able greatly missed by the team. to take his place in the team lineup, but with Pete Gordon, Art Kramer and several newcomers ready for service, there should be a formidable

The team will leave Tuesday morning over the Canadian National. The first game will be played at night under the floodlights, and should be quite a change from recent practicing conditions at home. The second game will be played on the following Saturday. Twenty players will make the trip.

Good luck, boys, you deserve it! quite a change from recent practicing conditions at home. The second game 10750 Jasper Ave., Edmonton will be played on the following Saturday. Twenty players will make the

SPORTING SLANTS

On Rouge by McConnell The last quest of the 1933 Golden Bears starts on Tuesday morning, when the Varsity squad entrains for the coast in search of the Hardy Trophy. of the Hardy Trophy, emblematic of the Western Intercollegiate championship.

> will take the field for the first contest under the floodlights of the Vancouver stadium next Thursday. With the exception of Ivan Smith, all the injured first stringers will be in the fray again, and they the first half. should make things plenty tough for the boys on the Pacific Coast.

The customary orchid goes this week to the Science rugby team for their successful battle against the Meds Wednesday. In the course of the hectic affray they managed to glean one lone point from a rouge that netted them the interfac championship.

Referee for the encounter was Coach Wilson, of the senior squad, and he claims that he was "astonished" at the class of rugby that was displayed by the interfaculty warriors. No wonder. So were the Badminton and Ski outfits running in full blast. The skimen hold their first outing of the season next Sunday, and a goodly crowd

Last, but not least, the hockey season is due to open. Latest reports have it that the same old four-cylinder loop will again be functioning; the only radical change being that the Forty-niners will put the Crescent uniforms back on.

Al Wilson will try his luck with our hockey equipment immediately after his return from the Coast. We look forward to a team that will dispel any illusions overtown folks in general and hockey coaches and managers in particular have about the quality of U. of A. hockey teams.

Men's Hockey Organizes For Coming Season

Al Wilson to Coach Seniors-Many New Recruits to Bolster Up the Teams

At a well-attended meeting Wednesday afternoon hockey officially got under way by organizing for the coming season. Harvey Fish, the President of Men's Hockey, was in the chair, and outlined the program for the coming season, laying special emphasis on the necessity of Freshmen passing November and Christmas tests (woe to the person who doesn't, hockey or not).

Fred Gale, President of Men's Athentirely self-responsible. A sad state of affairs, but no good hockey player ever stopped for that.

Harvey Fish introduced the popular coach, Al Wilson, who made his advent into our halls this fall as a capable rugby coach. Al has consented to stay for the hockey season to handle the team. Here's to hoping he can produce a winner.

Interfaculty hockey is being man-aged by Ev Borgal this season, and it s expected that both the A and B

At the meeting were most of last year's senior team, along with many likely-looking new players, at least as

Just glancing over the list of re-cruits, we notice Joe Ruzicka, a stellar defence man, who starred in interfac last year; Ross Stewart, a promarray of talent lined up.

The team will leave Tuesday morning over the Canadian National. The first game will be played at night under the floodlights, and should be High River Fliers; L. Matheson, a definition of the state o fence player from Lacombe, and H.

Woyetwitka from the Poolers.
"Doc" Gibson expects to have ice Popular rugby coach, who has been by the end of this week, so all hockey players are requested to watch the team for the ensuing season. noticeboards for coming work-outs.

HOCKEY MENTOR

AL WILSON

Square Ring Performers Plan Exhibition of Skill

To Hold Tournament in Near Future-Boxers and Wrestlers Have Large Turnouts in Training Under Direction of "Wally" Beaumont

The Boxing and Wrestling Club is coming into its own, now that the rugby season is over. Every Monday and Thursday from 4:30 to 5 p.m. sees from fifteen to twenty followers of the fistic art hard at work under the able direction of "Wally" Beaumont. Representatives in all weights are there. Enthusiasm is seen in every face. Hearty punches are exchange with a grin. It's really lots of fun, and then boxing is an accomplishment too. If you don't believe it, try some of our boys out.

Then, every Tuesday and Friday, ten to fifteen husky wrestlers are to be seen playing the old mat game nament. There promises to be no to the evening's interest.

be seen playing the old mat game under the direction of Bob Jackson. lack of speed, skill or training. Well-Bob lacks no technique in the art of getting a man off his feet fast and hard. Tumbles, rolls and other mat hard. Tumbles, rolls and other mat directed by Lack Track and the roll of the stunts, directed by Jack Tracy, add on the training, and be on the inside that night.

ARTS DEFEATED BY PHARMEDENTS

The Pharmedents wormed their the Hardy Trophy, emblematic of the Western Intercollegiate way into the interfac final by defeating the Arts-Com squad 5-0 in the semi-finals played in the twilight hours of Tuesday.

Each team was able to field ten men in spite of unclimatic conditions.

Putting on a spurt in the dying moments, an Arts attack sent Don McLaws for a thirty-yard run. He was downed on the Med five-yard line. The Arts snap was caught in the act of shaking the snow off the ball. In the ensuing scramble the Meds regained possession and kicked out of danger.

Minor clubs are swinging into their stride this week, with both Badminton and Ski outfits running in full blast. The skimen

Hitler says he will give full co-operation to the Olympic games in 1936 in Berlin, Probably the biggest event will be chucking the treaty.—
Y News.

In Appreciation

I take this opportunity to express my thanks to those who worked in my behalf in the Sophomore election, and to announce my whole-hearted intention of endeavouring to justify my election to the Class Presidency. (Signed) PARKER KENT.

Phone 27651

Muckleston's

BEAUTY PARLOR AND BARBER SHOP

10316 Jasper Avenue Few doors west of Hudson Bay

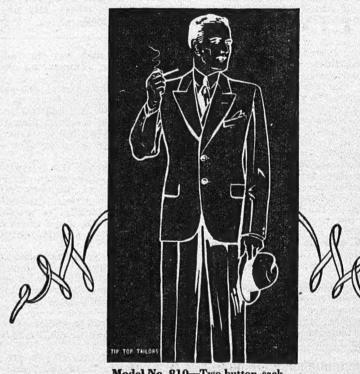

There is no substitute quality workmonship

Shoemakers since Boyhood

Cor. 105th Street and Jasper

Phone 22235

Model No. 810—Two button sack, half peaked lapel, popular semi-conservative model.

Doing One Thing Supremely Well!

Tip Top Tailors Clothes are made by specialists in custom-tailored clothes. All the vast resources of the Tip Top Tailors organization —largest one-price tailors in the world—are concentrated on clothing Canadians with fine custom-tailored garments—cut from choice weaves-strictly faithful to London and New York styles.

Come in. Judge for yourself the unequalled value of Tip Top Tailored-to-Measure Clothes.

PRICED AMAZINGLY AT

TIP TOP TAILORS MADE-TO-MEASURE

10123 Jasper Avenue

FOR

SATISFACTION

SNOWFLAKE LAUNDRY & DRY CLEANERS, LTD.

10404 98th STREET

Phones 21735-25185-25186

FUNDO

By H. M.

A certain caricature in A-135 was no more thought-lifting color.

it because of the early winter?

We hear that standing up makes

Can you tell us why Jack Mon the snow this time.

she wore such small ones.

the loose application of a word in a newspaper—stir up the indignation of some eminent men, while great things leave them cold?

And anyhow, what good does it do to think of the dead? It would be more to the point if we thought their ears!

eye, don't inhale, blow out!-Try

ART MUSIC, LTD.

FRATKIN BROS. We carry a complete stock of Classical and Popular Music Victor and Blue Bird Records Victor and Sparton Radios Orchestrations

Teachers' Supplies and Drum Supplies Mail Orders Our Specialty Edmonton

10127 101st St. Phone 27260

BIRKS

PIPE

Virgin Briar All Shapes In Velour Bag

JASPER at 104th STREET

POPPIES

By Fraser Macdonald

Armistice Day will be here again of the wrong sex—we think. Oh, you mathematicians! will be nice. But we will still be And brooding contemplation blurs my Where was Charles, not when the expected to bow our heads for two lights went out, but when Tom and minutes. For why? Every year I have reverently done so; but I have there's no place like the Cave for it? To think of the dead?—"the art—even our own gallery contains gallant boys who gave their lives for

Well, I question that. Why think of the dead? They are gone. Man-Why were some of the professors of the dead? They are gone. Man-so sarcastic on Saturday last? Was kind has canonized them all, so obviously their souls are at rest. It should be sacrilege to consider them less happy in heaven than they would one grow, but really there's no shortage of tall men here. So let's have a few more chairs in the Lower Common Room.

The shappy in heaves they have be, alive, in this feverish world. As for "gallant," why? Because they "gave" their lives? But they didn't. If a bandit holds me up and robs me of my watch, have I given it to him? No, the soldiers did not give their almost fell down the steps near the lives: their lives were forcibly taken Wauneita room? We won't blame it from them. Just as they took the lives of the men in the opposing army. A young woman complained, at the last House Dance, of tired feet. "The follow I danced with had such his fellow I danced with had such big whole affair was going to be a picshoes!" she explained. We wonder nic. That it was all going to be whether the real reason was not that over in a few months. For another thing, it took a great deal less courage to enlist than to refuse to. Few of the living: those broken bodies How charming are those girls who, that came out of the war, alive withbeing initiated into the secrets of the cigarette, allow that blissful blue cloud to writhe unrestrained about peace they had prayed for; hopeless, embittered, and decadent. * * *

There is something pathetically naive in the solicitude with which their male attendants regulate proceedings—short breath, squint left eye, don't inhale, blow out — Try how its head at aleven on the bows its head at eleven on the eleventh, doing to insure that these will not be murdered too? Think of the dead, but think of those who are

So why should we bow our heads and think of the dead? For it is we who are going to be sent off to kill and to die, if war breaks out, and personally I would rather be thought of before I die than after. Die, and for what? And kill—why should I kill? I can't hate anyone. Why should I hate a German, or a Russian, or a Jap, or whomsoever the finger may point at? Why should Hans Schmidt and I seek one another's throats just because our bosses can't agree? "Our quarrel is not with the German people"—I have no quarrel with any people.

So what are you going to do? Bow your head and think for two solid minutes on a lot of dead people you never knew? Why not be honest about it? They are rather to be envied than sentimentalized. Those who lost relatives in the war have their personal grief that is not confined to a statutory two minutes a year. To the rest of us it is fast becoming a meaningless ritual. So fly's wing, what are we going to do? The dead are past our help: are not the living of the last and the carolled a laugh. "Your life is the becomes sentimental and hysteridead of the next war much more im-

"A requirement that the applicant Your mite to the mass of eternal for admission to the Freshman class must write in a good, legible hand, in correct idiomatic English, would, if honestly enforced, depopulate the colleges of this country."—Dalhousie

Corrects

Corrects

Corrects

The Cry of the Species you must not forget;

The Race must go on though your a three hundred word letter couched

McNEILL'S 50c TAXI PHONE 23456

We Invite You to Enjoy OUR DINING ROOM SERVICE

Phone 27106 for Reservations

CORONA HOTEL

PRINCESS THEATRE

SHOWING: SATURDAY, MONDAY, TUESDAY HIT No. 1: SLIM SUMMERVILLE and ZASU PITTS in

"They Just Had To Get Married"

HIT No. 2: KAY FRANCIS in

"The Keyhole"

Please Note: Continuous Performance on Saturday from 2 p.m. to 11 p.m.

COMING: WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY

HIT No. 1: ALICE BRADY in

"Broadway To Hollywood"

HIT No. 2: CHARLIE RUGGLES in

"Mama Loves Papa"

A Question— It's Answer

And fills my mind with grinning, hot Torments That mill and mutter in grey accents:

"Ponder away; it will be wrong! Turn to the right; it will be wrong! Turn to the left; it will be wrong! Keep on going!"-The road's too long!"

"Retrace your steps!"—"I've gone too far!" Go forward then, and reach your

'But what's a star when the grasper is old?" 'Dead as the spark when the anvil is

Then should I not take what is close at hand.

And leave others to weather the head- gust how the great steel manufacturwinds of Doubt? Vicissitudes have about tuckered me out! But wait!" returned the chief of the black and blue. Remember man's fate as he journeys on earth. Ordained from the moment he Why do trivial details—such as people have the courage to be breathes upon birth:

To think that his fortune is just around the corner. To struggle and strive, and come out the mourner,

Misled by chimeras like fireflies at (Informed with a glamor that fades in the light).

For surely, you would not spoil all Forsooth, our merriment's hardly begun! You're acting a play, in case you don't know it, Played often before by peasant and

It must be a "natural," for long has it run— Enacted, re-acted, since Mankind begun!

And you, poor Shadow-Man, dare you betray A precedent founded by puppets of clay?

Poor clay, that passes on dented and tarnished Old truths, it newly has minted and varnished.

For the Idea is the thing, you see, survives To cross o'er the bridge of millions of lives."

So spake the voice, and silence sank down. Dripping peace, as snow falling over

But the curtain of peace soon drifted What have you for me," I asked him, "this day?

Tell me the reason we all wish to

That filters out only the mixture

Verities Will far surpass your alms to the charities:

The Race must go on though your sun has set."

Fiction—Travel

By Hal Moreau VESUVIUS

"Yes," said Frank, easing himself gently into a chair, "you can laugh.

Go right ahead, don't mind me."
"What happened?" grinned Louis.
"It all started with that innkeeper. asked him for a nice respectable norse and he gave me-Vesuvius!

"Now, to look at him in the morning, when the air's rather thick, you would think he was a quiet, inoffensive beast. But inspect those rolling eyes, those sharp teeth, and you'd creep nervously away.

"It was hardly dawn when I stamped into the courtyard and roared for a horse. From the dark retreat where he had spent a very impatient week, pranced forth Vesuvius. His finer points escaped my eye. I mounted.

"Apex was my destination, and I assure you Apex I reached. We vius change his tactics, and that was dashed merrily around the inn a when we sprang from the devil-knows couple of times before we struck the where to right in front of an old fruit road. Rather sassy for a twelveto debate the question, for at that

"'A twelve-year-old, you said?' cried I, and almost died when in response the smirking innkeeper held up two fat fingers.

"Away we flew, splitting the mountains like water. Vesuvius reserved nothing, but flung himself recklessly up and down the hills, keeping one eye fixed maliciously on me. More than once I attempted to leap off, and would drop the flowing mane of

WANTED

PASSENGERS FOR CALGARY BUS

SPECIAL RATES $5.00 RETURN

Apply Book Store

"Cry Haboc!"

Mr. Beverly Nichols has declared in his book "Cry Havoc" that he will not fight, if and when a new war Faint rebellion stirs my blood tonight, comes. No matter what the issue may be, no matter what newspaper propaganda may give as "noble" reasons for enlisting in a new combat, he takes the stand of pacificism, flatly and immovably. Why a book of this nature is timely I need not discuss! Everywhere there are ominous rumblings; journalists are raising their cries of "war in Europe," and selling their prejudiced copy in reams that the greedy public may be placated. What will the next war be like? What are we going to do?

The author first describes the dangerous intrigues of the armament companies and the Shearer case is disinterred for inspection; the financial arrangements of Schneider's with banks and governments are held up to view. He retells what has been And nestle up warm in a cave of sand, told over and over again with disers are nursing a new war. But his point is more than that—the colossal folly of it-England makes arms for potential enemies-so do they all. Is crew, 'Don't whimper! As yet you're not ping others to blow our heads off!

The next war will strike at the civilian populations, and they are absolutely unprotected either against air raids or gas. The recent experi-ments of an air raid over London were indicative of the helplessness of present defence methods. He goes on; discusses new gases and guns; by a certain fresh single speculates as to the efficacy of the thusiastic seriousness. navy, and so on. But he is inade. It seems a shame the which ends in mobs with guns, the history books of public schools, the O.T.C.'s, war memories, the prejudices of the older generation, and so Get rid of these things, he says, and there will be no war. entirely in agreement, but how?

For one thing, he declares, by having a little faith in the League of Nations, for in spite of the newspapers' howl that Japan has revealed the ineffectiveness of the League, despite the constant stream of articles which describe it as somnolent, it is well to recognize that newspapers have not a reputation for veracity. In That lives on hale in Eternity.

The vessel shattered, the essence the Liars," he demonstrates how journalists (here as in every other walk of that trade) have to subserve the opinions of the newspapers they represent, rather than the truth.

And our problem will never be solved till our economic house is set in order. Knowing his own lack of ability to discuss such a matter he brings together Sir Arthur Salter and Mr. G. D. H. Cole. The usual arguments are presented (but superficially): controlled capitalism, or socialism? Beverley Nichols does not answer this, the most important ques-tion of all. Because he cannot.

fly's wing,
As brief as the throb of a violin the whole book—the spirit may be cal on occasion, and even irrational, but that is not where the real merit of the book lies. It lies in its putting

Wrong

Though goiter ain't developed, But still I'll bet they ain't so bad

As her's who talk personal question to every individual who is potential cannon-fod-der. He may be unable to discuss lucidly the problems of economics, he may disregard the justifiable national aspirations of many European nations, he may be (and certainly is) ridiculous in maintaining that a nation which did not fight in self-defence could not come to much ultimate harm-he may be all of these things, but he has dared to defend the resolution of the Oxford students who said that they would not fight for king and country.

This is not 1914, but it could easily be so. Except for one thing. When war came in 1914 there were many who still cherished the idea that the battlefield was a scene of glory. Many could say with Rupert Brooke, "Well, if Armageddon's on, I suppose one should be there." Many my steed. But Vesuvius was not to be so easily deprived of his air-minded victim.

(Continued on Page Six)

"He would roll his eyes skyward until, spying me fluttering down, he would side-step in the neck of time, and plop! we two were again streaking away.
"Only once on the way did Vesupeddler. My low-bred, hypocritical, year-old! I thought, but had no time two-year-old cross between an ass and precise moment I felt a dangerous remore beneath, and Vesuvius erupted.

But the man, too, was clever—or knowing. Seeing the gentle grey, he dropped his basket of fruit and a horse became as passive as a lamb. bounded straight into the top of a tree.

"Vesuvius was enraged at being cheated out of such a soft kick or juicy bite, and ripped through the trees like a bullet from a howitzer.

"Thank goodness I have excellent teeth. Time after time as my heels were attracted strangely towards the zenith, a firm bite on Vesuvius' left ear alone kept me within speaking distance of terra firma. I don't want to step into eternity yet! Oh, no We were going at such a rate that had I let go I would have rolled and tumbled through space for days and

"But all things have an end. "Apex suddenly shot into view. Vesuvius was absolutely wild because I still had enough strength left to breathe an occasional curse or entreaty in his ear. We were flashing down the only street of the blessed town in less than a minute.

(Continued on Page Six)

"Dramat Society Presents Woolworth Program'

(It's not the plays in your Theatre, it's the Theatre in your plays that matters.)

University with its Woolworth pro- ported or adapted. gram of marked down plays, bargain actors and novelty directors. writer well remembers when he played house. He can guarantee any suffering reader that his performances on those occasions excelled those given on Friday night's crude demonstrations of dramatic art.

The original purpose of this experiment, as announced by the Dra-matic Society through the columns of The Gateway, was to enable the Freshmen to get better acquainted and to assist the society in discovering new dramatic material. In point of fact, however, instead of being a Freshman night, the program assured us that it was a dramat night. We trust that the Freshmen did get better acquainted; we know hat finding new material among Friday's mass of directorial debris would be as diffi-cult as finding the proverbial needle; and we noticed that the weakest play of the evening was cast entirely from the ranks of the upper classmen.

Had the Freshmen been given complete charge of the evening the display of theatrical ignorance could not have been any greater, and the plays would doubtless have been improved natural; only once did he take his by a certain fresh sincerity and enhand out fo his left pocket. One felt

It seems a shame that a University quate—the literary man turned that has given exceedingly creditable strategist can expect to be nothing else. Everything he says in the book has been better told before.

The seems a sname that a Chivelent and that has given exceedingly creditable performances of such plays as "Outward Bound," "The Adding Machine" and "St. Joan," should be reduced to But his attack lies elsewhere. It untidy and anaemic productions. The is against the breeders of war; the chief cause of this theatrical bloodpatriotism instilled into children lessness was obviously lack of adequate direction and backstage knowledge. Consequently the audience laughed at the actors' accidents rather than at the authors' incidents.

There is a definite place in the theatre for farce, but there is no form of theatrical entertainment that requires greater skill in direction and acting. Farce should be approached seriously, hat in hand.

Mr. Brooks Atkinson, in a brillian article in the New York Times, says 'It will do the theatre no good to truckle to a popular taste that is already gratified more inexpensively and conveniently by the talking pic That market has gone for tures. good. Authors and producers who cannot think in any other terms are sitting up with a corpse.'

Mr. Parker Kent deserves some commendation, for his play succeeded partly in stimulating suspense and setting tempo. The business, however, was blurred and the pantomime indefinite. Miss Brief was pleasing Mr. Ole-Cart was smart, but not smart enough to avoid masking other important figures on the stage. The subject matter of this home-made play compared more than favorably

MY GLANDS

It seems my glands are all gone

wrong

When things ain't going as they When life's completely screwy, And when the girl friend turns me

My glands have all gone fooey.

The girl who told me 'bout my glands, Or wrote it in The Gateway, Ought to eat her mush and bran And see her doctor straightway.

GARNEAU BAKERY

10860--82nd Ave.

The Dramatic Society startled the with the subject matter of those im-

"Con Amore" had great possibilities. It perhaps came closest to being up to time. If the director had had more imagination and a little technical knowledge, it might have stood out like a good deed in a naughty world. The actors came out of character while waiting for laughs. Their performance, although not inspired, was almost adequate.

"Good Enough" endured enough hardship during its production. The lighting was without decision. The question seemed to be, "To light or not to light." The defending lawyer showed some vocal promise, the prisoner was well cast, but the jury were definitely out of the picture. The play seemed to lack smartness.

The thin plot of "Oui, Oui Nanette," cleverly adapted, was successfully hidden by the producer. The climax of the play completely missed fire. The movement was definitely without motivation. The gesture without motivation. The gestures were invariably ill-timed. Dubois succeeded in drowning his lines with the noise of gestures. Julian Chand-ler had not learned that appearing natural is not the same as being that either the hand was deformed or that he was finger-counting the small change in his pocket. There small change in his pocket. There was not a single change of pitch throughout the play. The alkaline quality of the voices was anything but pleasing. The play dragged on its sluggish way for thirty-two minutes.

We understood that the Dramatic Society had expended a great sum of money on lighting equipment. As

(Continued on Page Six)

Dress Clothes

HART BROS.

SHOWING TUXEDO 2. PIECE SUITS, REG. $30.00

At $24.95 These are very excellent value

Silk Vests at ..... $4.50 to $6.00 Slater Dress Shoe at......$6.50 Dress Shirts, Forsyth, at....$2.95 Holeproof Silk Hosiery, $1 pr. Silk Scarves...... $1.50 to $3.00 Society Brand Clothes, Canada's finest ......$30.00 to $40.00 Very Special Fall Suit, in single or double-breasted, the newest of patterns and style, at ......$22.50

We specialize in Odd Pantsmake the old suit like new, from ...... $4.50 to $6.00 Hatchway Underwear, $1.00 to $2.50

2-piece Underwear, each.....75c

"Up to Your Ankles" in

Perforations and stitchings flatter the smart suedes shown by STERLING. Alluring and wearable, every shoe in the Sterling collection is an outstanding value. "Come in and see them some time."

$3.00

$8.00

STERLING SHOES, LTD.

10125 101st Street

Phone 27433

THE SEASON ARRIVES --

And with it, white-bosomed males with black ties and wing collars, looking all too nonchalant in perfectly fitting tuxedos.

Our clothes, made to order, for delivery in ten days, start at $23.00

ALLARD'S

SMART TAILORING

10022 Jasper Avenue

Phone 25392

Opposite Royal Bank

'DRAMAT SOC. PRESENTS WOOLWORTH PROGRAM'

(Continued from Page Five) a matter of fact, in previous productions the lighting under the able guidance of Ralph Lee was a thing of beauty and merit. We feel compelled to ask, "What has happened to this equipment and where was Mr. Lee?" The light, at times non-existent, was never imaginative, and seldom adequate.

We trust that the participants enjoyed themselves immensely. The only pleasure we were able to derive from this junior high school Friday afternoon entertainment was that derived from our sense of relief at its completion.

STIRRING CONTROVERSY AROUSED BY PLEA FOR NAZI SYMPATHY

(Continued from Page One) Dr. Hennings touched lightly on the topic of racial prejudice and per-secution, but the question was brought up very strongly at the con-clusion of the address, when the meeting was thrown open for ques-

Max Wershof read selections from an authorized English version of Hit-ler's book, "My Account," to the effect that if the Jew with the help of his Marxian creed succeeds in overrunning Germany and eventually other western nations, it will mean the end of humanity, and by fighting against the Jews I do the Lord's work.' The quotation also attributed to Hitler said of democracy, "none but a Jew can value an institution which is as dirty and false as he is himself." The speaker suggested that there were probably more vile passages than were quoted, in the untranslated edition.

Dr. Hennings, in reply to the speaker stated that "the original can be purchased anywhere in Europe, so there would be no sense in deleting favorite parts." Referring to the words, "the Lord's works," he said: "I have heard the same language from other sources. It seems to be the language of men in high positions."
The audience appreciated the neatly turned comment and applauded.

In reply to the actual context of the question, the speaker said that the Jews had come to Germany from the east since the war, and were filling the key positions of the nation far out of proportion to their numerical rating. He expressed the opinion that the German people ought to be allowed to fulfill their own national ideals, and members of the Jewish race might not necessarily feel in sympathy with those ideals. The speaker had previously stated that many of the "atrocity stories" were an insult to the intellect of a human being if he were expected to believe them. He attributed them, in works to questions put later, to the anti-climax, the blast of a sum in the blast of a the Jewish race might not necessarily Guardian had withdrawn its sympathies from Germany, and that that would seem to show there was some basis of fact in the stories. However, Dr. Sonet thanked the laughter, and Dr. Alexander's com-speaker with a quotation from a quotation was read.

volume which he had brought with The by-play seemed to have him, but Dr. Hennings, who had brought home upon the students the

"CRY HAVOC!"

(Continued from Page Five) still are repeating his beautiful but dangerous war sonnets; but we have had also Siegfried Sassoon. When the next war comes it may be harder to stampede the youth of England, or of any other nation into it. The last war was fought to end war, he asserts in his "Letters to a Young Man"; if we fight again we mock at the men who are dead in Flanders.

while we may admire the conclusion, and agree with it, it is not of much value to work to such a conclusion on pure sentiment. Beverley Nichols is not cold-blooded in his thinking—the facts serve only to make him hysterical—he will not face the whole issue. The milk of human mane and ears. Swing amid air, straighten out and flop over.'

"I followed the lucid commands mechanically, and felt myself somerdifficulties, but no one has discovered where it can be procured in large enough quantities. He suggests education against war as a descend within the allotted time, method, but education has been back-tracked. method, but education has been notoriously slow; he does not deal with the actual reasons for a war in modern Europe, but only in externals, e.g., armaments; he does not treat of the constant menace of economic nationalism; he does not speak of a clash of color. Without which his book cannot be as convincing as it might.

"Then the three men flung lasso after lasso about the stubborn beast, which just stood there and glared—waiting until I should strike his back. I silently thanked God that the net was strong.

"As soon as the nag was securely trussed up the chattering crowd dispersed. vincing as it might.

JOHN GARRETT.

INTERFAC. TITLE DECIDED ON ROUGE BY McCONNEL

(Continued from Page Four) Here a costly fumble resulted in the loss of the ball. Under the cover of a snowstorm raised by their teammates in the line of scrimmage, the Meds pulled one of their own dark plays, or maybe under the cover of darkness they pulled a play; nobody will ever know. The result was that MacDonald got away with the ball ing from behind a snow-cloud and accosted him. Science men, on again getting possession of the soaked piggetting possession of the soaked pigskin, started for a touchdown. About skin, started for a touchdown. About time the hall was seen to strike back!" the game was then in the last quar ter. Some time under the cover of darkness the teams changed ends. Another unsolved mystery.

Coach Cooper, of the Medical Hopes, who had been following the play up and down the side lines on his skiis (not, whispering oskis), was seen to discard his coat, hat and maybe his skis. The Meds started a drive for victory. A lone figure darted hither and you on the wrong in reply to questions put later, to Jewish propaganda on the part of newspapers influenced by Jewish the ball game in the blast of a whistle. The ghost has walked through the snow to return no more through the snow that the snow to return no more through the snow that the snow the snow that the snow th for another year. Still and quiet Dr. Sonet pointed out that such a though it is, the grid seems to echo: reliable paper as the Manchester "We are the Engineers with forty Guardian had withdrawn its symbols and a one-nothing win over the speaker for "the charming manner in which he has presented his cause." is to answer, not to make remarks Dr. Alexander confronted the about the speaker." Then the never read the book or heard of the fact that they in their questionings man in question, was unable to answer the question. The reading of somewhat harshly, and from then on the quotation was preceded by a marked deference and courtesy was short by-play of words between the shown him in the questionings, most two, culminating in the lecturer's of which were answered in the above remark, "O, I thought you had a account.

FICTION—TRAVEL

(Continued from Page Five)

"All the townfolk were out. No doubt they had heard Vesuvius clamp over the hills, and had rightly con cluded that another poor sap had been duped by their innkeeper. They seemed to expect us. Yes, indeed! Quite ready for the grand entrance!

"Three men had dashed into the road a few hundred yards ahead, and There he takes his stand. But now with amazing skill-they were practised, then-stretched a huge net above it from side to side. As I tore on a thundering voice bellowed, "Ahoy! Top o' Vesuvius! Le' go mane and ears. Swing amid air, straighten out and flop over.'

persed.
"'I guess,' said one of the big rope stroking his stubbly and net men, stroking his stubbly chin, 'I guess thar's time to send ol' Ves' back afore noon. "'Back?' I moaned.

"'Ay!'
"'To that worm of an innkeeper, that red-nosed beast of a—_?'

"'But he'll fool another poor fish with that erupting killer, Vesuvius.'
"'Ay.' There was a ring of contentment in his voice.

"'You encourage him,' I accused.
"'Wall! We do an' we don't. Ya MacDonald got away with the ball see, ery time of ves comes should for a thirty-yard gain until an Engineer in the backfield saw him coming from behind a snow-cloud and accosted him. Science men, on again sport, I calls it.' He stalked away see, e'ry time ol' Ves' comes snortin'

THE GATEWAY'S LOST, FOUND and PERSONAL

Rate, 25c per advertisement Manager: ED. DAVIDSON

LOST-In Joe's Tuck, on Tuesday last, a man's grey fedora hat. Initials I.B.K. stamped in band. Reward. Return to Gateway

LOST

LOST—In Arts Library, a Sheaffer's White Dot Fountain Pen. No name or marks. Finder please leave with Miss Dickson, Librarian.

LOST—Between Pembina and the Med Building, a Green Silk Scarf with embroidered initials C.A.P. Finder please leave in Gateway

COUGHLIN'S

The Capitol

BEAUTY PARLORS

Edmonton's Oldest and Largest Permanent Waving Staff

DANCING Tuesday, Thursday, Saturday TIVOLI

ADMISSION Tuesdays and Thursdays Gentlemen 25c, Ladies 15c

Saturdays Gentlemen 35c, Ladies 25c Phone 21522 or 22808 Parties may reserve tables at no extra charge

Refreshments are now being served

Edmonton's Favorite for Dance and Party

Refreshments

VELVET ICE CREAM

In Dixies, or there's a dozen delicious Layer Brick and Mixed Fruit Creations.

Phone 25151

NOVELTY MOULDS FOR SPECIAL OCCASIONS

GET THE HABIT OF CALLING

McFarlane 50 cent Taxi

PHONE 25337

50c

5-Passengers to Centre of City

We Appreciate Your Patronage

50c

ST. JOSEPH'S

CAFETERIA

Hart House String Quartette

Will appear in Convocation Hall, November 16th. Gallery tickets for students, 50c, will be available until November 11th.

Edmonton Hat Cleaners

And Shoe Shine Parlors We clean and block hats satisfactorily Ladies' and Gentlemen's

Hats of any kind made larger or smaller Country orders solicited too We have been in business for 18 years

Phone 26934. 10121 101st St.

offers

Improved Facilities

for the Convenience and Accommodation of its Patrons

SPORTING GOODS

> We carry everything in the line of Sporting Goods at very moderate prices

UNCLE BEN'S EXCHANGE

Est. 1912.

Phone 22057